

ELLEN OSBORN'S FASHION LETTER

Dame Fashion in the Adirondacks—What to Wear for Mountain Climbing.

—Copyright, 1898

A man in a sweater entered an Adirondack store a few days ago and stood about disconsolately while a couple of elaborately-gowned women gazed at deerkin rugs, balsam pillows and birchbark picture frames. Another man who recognized the first comer as a prominent member of the Appalachian club addressed him:

"The wilderness must be spoiled for you, now that it is cut up by four railroads, isn't it?"

The Appalachian club man picked up a piece of souvenir china which bore the legend, "John Brown's Grave" and fingered it gingerly. "Wilder than ever, wilder than ever," he answered, shortly.

"How's that?" persisted his questioner.

"Hotels so full of women I never set foot in 'em; sleep out every night; big rabbit nibbles my toes, while porcupine scratches my ear. Wilder than ever, I tell you."

Short skirts and an alpenstock or fishing tackle are still feasible in the Adirondacks of a morning, but at night not Newport itself is more gloriously arrayed.

"What are you going to do to-day?" somebody asked of an energetic girl at breakfast.

"Climb Whiteface this morning; after luncheon drag a trolling spoon from the Devil's Pulpit—splendid rock for fishing—to Bishop Potter's summer Episcopal palace. Queer that the two should be so nearly opposite each other, isn't it? To-night, dance, I suppose, as usual."

The climber of Whiteface and other Adirondack mountaineers carries a peculiar alpenstock this season—leaving

"Don't let them make you silk-lined skirts or shirts with any sort of lining," said a woman of this order, confidentially; "you know if you catch anything and handle it yourself you are fit for the washtub afterwards."

"Did you see the faces of the piazza ladies half an hour ago?" she continued. "I had my fingers through the gills of a four-pound pickerel, and they couldn't imagine how I could touch the thing."

The woman who brings her wheel to the Adirondacks is apt to stack it in a corner of the casino and utilize her bicycle dress for golf or fishing or mountaineering; but a few enthusiasts ride or even tour. "Wear a wide felt hat and express most of your belongings from place to place," is the advice of one who has traveled through the wilderness awhew. "Few women can carry an extra pound on mountain roads," is her further declaration, "nor can the men of a party burden themselves with more than the barest necessities. Leave lamps at home—you won't ride after dark; ride a low gear, and don't ride at all if you are afraid of sand or corduroy or hills."

"Is it worth while?" asked a doubting Thomasina.

"Tour among the mountains and you will never have patience again with city riding," asserted the bicycle woman.

Girls who are not athletic or whose activities are limited to a modest skill at golf or tennis or croquet make themselves uncommonly dainty to offset the robust charms of the tanned sisterhood. Any number of white or cream-colored wool costumes are seen on hotel piazzas and at picnics or excursions

TOILETS FOR MORNING, AFTERNOON AND EVENING.

It at the bottom to resume possession after descending. The long straight, white stick has so many of its own twigs twisted and interlaced about it as to be mistaken at first glance for an odd sort of snowshoe or a primitive tennis racket.

Low-heeled broad-soled shoes with short tweed or serge skirts and short-waists are the regiments of the mountaineers. Women who take cold easily wear lightweight French flannel blouses or tuck into the guide's pack basket a scarlet or "Cuba red" jacket, to be donned if the wind or top protessing. Sailor hats with scarf veils are the usual headgear.

"They were new three days ago," said a woman, glancing at her stained and misshapen bicycle boots, after the return of a Mount Marcy excursion party.

"I thought," she resumed, that if bicycle boots were good for nothing else they might be protection from brambles, but look at them!"

The boots in question had been originally of a fine kid, with French heels. "They make the feet look smaller," said the woman, shamefacedly, "but one day's tramping wore them to 'frazzles'."

"I saw a Frenchwoman in Switzerland climbing the Rigi with heels worse than these," volunteered a listener. "She wore a picture hat and a silk gown."

"I met a woman last week toddling across the boat-carry from Blue Mountain lake to the racket with a poodle dog under one arm and the train of her dress under the other," remarked a man in knickerbockers. "She had a maid to hold a parasol over her head and she wore a lot of bracelets. I didn't notice her heels."

"Don't," said the Mount Marcy woman, faintly.

The girls who fish indulge them selves in crash or pique suits, for the Adirondacks have been seeing hot weather. Green and white, blue and white or scarlet and brown are approved combinations. Girls who catch fish—a smaller number—provide themselves with navy blue or royal blue serge or flannel skirts, indispensable for the windy, cloudy days when they must seek their prey.

FINE MILITARY RECORD.

Brig. Gen. Louis H. Carpenter Began His Army Career in 1861 as a Private Soldier.

One of the most striking examples of the democracy of the United States army is presented by the career of Louis H. Carpenter, who entered the army as a private and has risen to be a brigadier general. Carpenter was at the University of Pennsylvania in 1861, when he was seized with the war fever and enlisted in the regular cavalry. Within six months his soldierly qualities won him a commission as second lieutenant in the regular cavalry. Before the civil war closed he was repeatedly brevetted for bravery displayed in campaign and on the field of battle—to first lieutenant 1863 for "gallant and meritorious services at Gettysburg," captain 1864 for "gallant and meritorious services in the battle of Winchester," then lieutenant colonel United States army and colonel of volunteers for "gallant and meritorious services during the war."

(A Brave Officer Who Has Risen from the Ranks)

He was in nearly all the cavalry fights of the army of the Potomac. In the battle of Fairfield, near Gettysburg, he rescued and brought off the field the colors of his regiment when the regiment was surrounded by an overwhelming force of the enemy.

His bravery was so conspicuous that Gen. Sheridan, one of the greatest cavalry commanders in history, called him to his side as one of the most trusted officers of his staff. After the war of the rebellion he returned to his regiment and again became conspicuous as an Indian fighter.

At the beginning of the present war he was made a brigadier general and put in command of the brigade made by the famous Fifth Maryland regiment, the crack First regiment of the District of Columbia and the celebrated Second New York regiment of volunteers.

ANOTHER NAVAL HERO.

Commander Davis, Who Captured the Port of Ponce with a Single Auxiliary Gunboat.

Commander Charles Henry Davis, of the auxiliary gunboat Dixie, to whom the Port of Ponce surrendered late in July, was given his command in May, after the beginning of hostilities with Spain. At that time he was superintendent of the naval observatory, to which office he was transferred in 1897 from his post as member of the board of inspection and survey. Commander Davis is a native of Massachusetts, and entered the naval academy in November, 1861. When he graduated the civil war was in its closing months, and young Davis was sent to the European station, thus escaping any active service in the line of fighting. He was promoted to the rank of lieutenant commander in 1869 and to that of commander in 1885. He has been connected with several important expeditions for the determination of differences in longitude by means of submarine telegraphic cables, and has traveled in every part of the world. Among the ships he has commanded are the Saratoga, the Quinnebaug and the Montgomery. He is a first-class, experienced sailor, and found no trouble in taking the little port of Ponce before the entrance of the Massachusetts and the other ships in the convoy fleet.

GERMAN EMPEROR'S INDUSTRY.

Some interesting statistics have been published showing the German emperor's industry during last year. The figures represent a mass of work that might well appeal to most people. The emperor received 1,059 reports which come under the category of "immediate." These included 1,78 telegrams. It devolved upon him to give decisions in 751 cases and the number of documents he signed, including cabinet orders and appointments, is set down at 902.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

The Democratic convention of the State of New York are requested to make an enabling resolution and then adjourn from time to time according to their convenience, so as to be held in New York City, Aug. 28, 29, 30, 31, 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates to be voted for at the regular convention and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention. ELLIOT RANSFORTH, Chairman.
August 16th, 1898.

The Weather Bureau predicts that there will be no real relief from the hot wave we are now experiencing before Sunday.

When it was supposed that Platt had no use for Roosevelt he was the idol of the anti-Platt crowd and met all their requirements as a gubernatorial candidate. Now that Roosevelt seems to have found favor in Platt's eyes the anti-Plattites have turned against him. Jacob Worth, the Brooklyn leader, declared, Tuesday, that Roosevelt might do his second place on the ticket, but that something more than mere personal bravery is needed in New York's governor. He suggested that Seth Low was just the kind of a man needed in this emergency and that Low and Roosevelt would make a strong team.

ted it to the depth of twenty or twenty-two inches, having passed through both lungs. The heart was untouched.

Charged With Breaking Into Chem-

Constables Turner and Carter, of some time since. The constables had them chained together.

by Associate firms.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Orders were issued, to-day, for the musterout of the following regiments: 1st Vermont, 1st

THE POISONED CANDY CASE.

Mrs. Botkin, widow of Ernest Deasey, Reporter for Cuban Workers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—Detective Gibson, who assisted in the arrest of Mrs. Botkin, who is suspected of having sent the poisoned candy which caused the death of Mrs. Deasey and Mrs.
Deasey, at Dover, Del., states that he has no warrant for the arrest of any other woman.

He thinks Mrs. Botkin will break down, and has taken precautions to prevent her from committing suicide. She was much agitated when told that she would have to stand trial on a charge of murder, but soon recovered herself, and said the charge would have to be proved. A truck belonging to Mrs. Botkin was seized in this city, to-day.

SPANIARDS AND PHILIPPINE IN-BURGENTS FIGHT.

MADRID, Aug. 24.—The government has received a dispatch from Gen. Rice, governor of the Philippines Islands, and the successor of Gen. Jaén, in the Governorship of the Philippines saying there has been bloody fighting between the Spaniards and insurgents, with an estimated loss to the latter of 500 men. The Spanish losses were important.

The dispatch says a number of the insurgent chiefs were captured and shot.

PONCE SALOONS ORDERED CLOSED.

PONCE, Porto Rico, Aug. 24.—Gen.
James H. Wilson has assumed control of the district of Ponce and has ordered all saloons closed, with a view to quieting existing disorders. They will be opened subsequently under special regulations.
General Grant has established
his headquarters here.

REAR ADMIRAL SCHLEY BETTER.

WEST POINT, Conn., Aug. 24.—This morning found Rear Admiral Schley greatly improved and everything now points to his speedy recovery. The Admiral announced his intention of going to Washington, to-morrow, unless his physician absolutely forbids.

SPANISH TROOPS REACH SPAIN.

cial steamer Alcalá, with the first of Spain's returned soldiers, arrived from Santiago de Cuba, to-day.

CORTES TO MEET SEPT. 17.

MADRID, Aug. 15.—Queen Regent has signed the royal decree convening Cortes
for Sept. 17th.

SUSPENDED BY THE MAYOR.

He Charger Street Superintendent Wilcox, with incompetence and insubordination—Council Hunt Pans on the charges.

Major Mason, Thursday, suspended
Street Superintendent Wilcox, alleging incompetence and insubordination. The Mayor says a special meeting of the Common Council will be called at the earliest possible date, probably Friday evening, to act on the matter. In the meantime Assistant Street Superintendent Welsh is wrestling with the bane brought by the storm.

The charter provides that the Street Superintendent shall take orders from the Mayor and the Street Committee of the Common Council. Their orders have not always agreed and Mr. Wilcox has not been able to serve two masters,
hence this trouble.

Major Mason admits that his action was hastened by an incident of Monday's meeting of the council, when a question of veracity arose between Mr. Wilcox and himself.

Mr. Wilcox has been forced to battle against the worse conditions that ever confronted a Street Superintendent and has apparently done all that a man could do. He is at least entitled to a suspension of judgment until the charges against him are investigated by the Council, and it is decided whether they were inspired by a sense of official responsibility and rest on substantial grounds or whether the Mayor's official power was used to gratify his personal prejudice.
